University of Washington’s R25 Short Course

Daniela Witten, University of Washington

The Summer Institute in Statistics for Big Data consists of a series of 2½ day workshops (modules) designed to introduce biologists, quantitative scientists, and statisticians to modern statistical techniques for the analysis of Biological Big Data. The format will involve formal lectures, computing labs, and hands-on case studies.